DEER

RESPONSIBLE SOURCING

---

Animal welfare considerations

- Antler removal method
- Capture from the wild

If you have specific questions or challenges arising from your gap analysis, get in touch with RSPCA Australia.

Product range

Meat: fresh, processed, pet food

By-product: pet food, pet treats, antlers, velvet antler, deer velvet, gelatine, leather

Step one

Where are deer antlers, meat or by-product used in your business?

- Are you using deer meat on site?
- Are you buying in products that contain deer meat?
- Are you buying in deer antlers?

What deer meat is used in your business?

- Is the deer meat used on site fresh or value added?

Step two

For deer meat and/or deer antlers used in your business, ask your supplier:

- Is the product certified by a third party? If so, which certification program.
- What country/ies is the deer meat/antler sourced from?
- What is the method of sourcing or production of deer?
- Is your supplier also the producer?
If not, how many suppliers are involved in the chain back to the producer?
- Does the producer also undertake velvet antler removal?

- If product is sourced from wild/feral deer, what is the method and competency level of shooting?
- If product is sourced from deer farming, what husbandry practices are carried out and how?
- For farmed deer, what is the method of slaughter?

Step three

Compile your findings to work out the following:

- The percentage of certified deer meat/antler in your business supply chain
- The proportion of Australian deer meat/antler and any imported product
- A list of all producers supplying your business
- Husbandry practices, farming methods, capture methods and slaughter methods

Step four

Review your organisation's current supply chain to identify the animal welfare issues using the information collected from the first three steps.

Step five

Implement plan within your organisation to address the identified issues. See RSPCA Australia's 'How to develop an animal welfare policy' for more information.
